

Maximum result and minimum effort with Time & Attendance System

Time is money! Reduce overtime and improve efficiency with Protel Labs' Atrak.

Tracking time and attendance is critical to all organizations, size not withstanding. Having an automated time and attendance tracking system in place can help organizations across all industries save money and maximize efficiency. ProtelLabs Atrak enables you to collect, analyse, and take immediate control of your employees' time and attendance and eliminates the burden of manual processes.

Shift your focus to other areas that call for your attention, while we take care of time and attendance.

How Do You Benefit?

Accuracy

Atrak time and attendance module improves information accuracy and also makes it easier to run MIS reports. With automated shift roster system, real time information on the absenteeism and attendance details are at fingertip. It enables accurate calculation of working hours which assists in payroll computation without errors.

Easy accessibility

Enable easy accessibility of timekeeping data. The software permits managers to access employee data 24/7 and view real-time reports on the extra work hours the employees put in.

Saves money

By automating the processes for time and attendance, employers can help cut expenses. The time and attendance solution allows accurate prediction and increased success in labour planning and management, leading to reduced overall manpower expenditures.

Saves time

Automated time registration reduces or eliminates the need for any manual re-entry of timekeeping data into a payroll system as the two are integrated. The result is accurate payroll processing that can take as little as 20 minutes per pay period. This boosts productivity and enables cost savings.

Great investment returns

An automated time and attendance system can provide both direct and indirect investment returns. It facilitates indirect cost savings related to workforce management, including better insight into employees' work, the time spent on their work, and the return on investment of their work. This information allows you to appropriately and proportionately allocate labour across your workforce.
